preventing homelessness among domestic violence survivors and their families: a virtual briefing on the domestic violence housing first model

Sponsored by Blue Shield of California Foundation and California Partnership to End Domestic Violence

May 7, 2020
introduction

Lucia Corral Peña
Senior Program Officer
Blue Shield of California Foundation
welcome

Senator Susan Rubio
22nd Senate District
Eastern Los Angeles County
addressing dv and homelessness

Lucia Corral Peña
Senior Program Officer
Blue Shield of California Foundation
dvhf evaluation highlights

Gabriela López-Zerón, PhD
Associate Director, Research Consortium on Gender-Based Violence & Director, RCGV Linguistic Justice Division
Michigan State University
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

• Blue Shield of California Foundation

• California Governor’s Office for Emergency Services (CalOES)

• California Partnership to End Domestic Violence

• All participating agencies’ staff, advocates, leadership & community partners

• All survivors who shared their stories and contributed their time and expertise

• MSU Research Consortium on Gender-based Violence’s Research Team
DV Housing First

Core Components of the Model

- Survivor-Driven, Trauma-Informed Mobile Advocacy
- Community Engagement
- Flexible Financial Assistance
Survivor-Driven, Trauma-Informed Mobile Advocacy

- Advocates focus on addressing the needs identified by survivors rather than on pre-determined needs promoted by agencies.
- Advocates are mobile, meeting survivors where it is safe and convenient for them.
- Advocates engage in trauma-informed practice.
Flexible Financial Assistance

Directly related to housing

AND funds critical for housing stability
COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

- Housing providers
- Service providers
- Community members
19 agencies tracked their use of flexible funding & distributed identical Client Feedback Surveys

36 DV Housing First participants were interviewed 4 times over a 9-month period

Interviews with key community partners

Examination of one DV organization implementing the model
Flexible Funding

925 survivors

Disbursements ranged From $0.50 to $6,385

On average, survivors received 4 payments, about $3,000 in total
Housing Impact

58% Prevented Homelessness

Of those → 46% Stayed in Their Homes

“I was on the verge of becoming homeless. Thanks to the [DVHF] program, I am able to keep a roof over my children’s heads.”
Housing Impact

40% Obtained New Housing

“They helped me with my deposit, furniture, and beds, living room set, dinner set, and dressers. They help me with diapers and clothing for my 1-year old. We have not had any of these items in years.”
Participants Felt Their Advocate...

- 95% Very focused on their strengths
- 92% Flexible about where they met
- 90% Helped reach their housing goals
Mariela (not her real name) was homeless when she started working with a non-profit agency in Los Angeles. The agency supported her with DV Housing First flexible financial assistance to pay for move-in costs and first month’s rent of her new housing. The following month, she needed financial support for furniture assistance and rental assistance in order to stay in her new home. Due to changing circumstances and need, three months later, Mariela received help with move-in costs for a new home. Due to the flexibility and immediate disbursement of the funds, Mariela and her family avoided moving back into homelessness and were able to move into another home. In total, Mariela received about $5,000 in five separate payments to support her in her journey toward housing stability.
Ana (not her real name) was housed and wished to stay in her home. She worked with a non-profit agency in the greater San Francisco area to receive advocacy and financial support to help her stay in her home. Her first four payments were across four months and helped her with utility and rental debt, as well as basic needs for food and gas. This debt assistance helped her catch up with rent. The following month, she received funds to help with her current month’s rent. Due to changing circumstances, she received help with rent two months later; and in another two months, she received help with her utilities. She received about $3,000 over eight separate payments to cover these costs. Due to this support, she was able to avoid any unwanted moves and stay in her home.
“I’m paid up until July and I’m stable and safe and there’s no reason for me not to stay [in current housing]. It means that I can close my door and my kids have a safe bed to sleep, a warm bed to sleep, they have food if they’re hungry, they have entertainment, they don’t need for anything… they’re good.”
“Thanks to this program I have a place to live for me and my two kids. Thanks to this program I have settled other costs that were not in my plans. Thanks to this program I have been able to survive everything. They have also taught me to carry and manage my money better.”
Lessons Learned & Implications

- Flexible financial assistance can be critical to effectively help survivors and their families prevent homelessness and maintain housing stability.

- Advocates’ ability to pair flexible funds with trauma-informed, survivor-driven mobile advocacy is essential to help survivors obtain and maintain housing.

- Leadership and staff must implement proactive and responsive strategies to establish and maintain relationships with community partners.

- An organizational structure that allows for flexible work schedules and promotes ongoing training and staff support is key to successfully implement the model.
q&a on the evaluation
dvhf panel

Elizabeth Eastlund
Executive Director
Rainbow Services

Barbara Kappos
Executive Director
East Los Angeles Women’s Center

Nilda Valmores
Executive Director
My Sister’s House

Jessica Bartholow
Policy Advocate
Western Center for Poverty panel reaction

Krista Niemczyk
Public Policy Manager
California Partnership to End Domestic Violence panel q&a thank you!

to access materials related to today’s briefing, visit: www.blueshieldcafoundation.org/housing