Carolyn Wang Kong Senior Program Officer Blue Shield of California Foundation

our bold goal

To make California the healthiest state in the country, and the state with the lowest rates of domestic violence by leveraging the power of community and collaboration to generate change blue 🗑 of california foundation

our work focuses on

Breaking the Cycle of Domestic Violence

Violence is cyclical, generational, and can be experienced and felt over an individual's lifetime. We're working to prevent domestic violence, which takes a multigenerational approach.

Collaborating for Healthy Communities

We're working to understand what it takes to implement breakthrough collaborative models that support community health and end multigenerational domestic violence.

Designing the Future of Health

How do communities create, experience, and sustain equitable and responsive health solutions? We're working with our partners to find out how to create population health ecosystems for all.

Seeking to partner with collaboratives that:

- Are well-established and functioning with a high degree of trust
- Are comprised of representatives from the communities of focus and a variety of sectors
- Have a track record and/or focus on improving community conditions from a prevention perspective
- Do not explicitly or primarily focus on domestic violence, but see value in integrating communitylevel domestic violence prevention into their work at this time

12 PREVENTION

Prevention Institute's role in this effort

- Site selection and administration
- Capacity building through technical assistance and coaching
- Manage a multi-site learning community
- Connect the work to additional key partners and initiatives
- Capture and disseminate lessons learned
- Catalyze action on community-level approaches to domestic violence prevention

13 PREVENTION in California

Expected Outcomes

- Greater shared understanding of domestic violence as a relationship and community issue.
- New partners recruited and/or current partnerships strengthened to reduce community-level risks and enhance community-level resilience to prevent domestic violence.
- Promotion of safe relationships and prevention of domestic violence from a community-level perspective as ongoing collaborative priorities.

- Capacity and protocol developed and/or enhanced to address disclosures of past or current domestic violence that arise within the context of the collaborative's work.
- Workplans developed or updated to include community-level domestic violence prevention strategies
- Lessons learned and suggestions for how to approach this work reflected upon and shared with the statewide learning community.

Sectors Acting For Equity (SAFE) Project

PREVENTION

A Health Equity and Multisector Approach to Preventing Domestic Violence

Toward Community Environments that Support Safe Relationships in California Funded by the BlueShield of California Foundation

Thank you to our partners at the state and local level, across sectors who have provided guidance and helped refine the SAFE approach

Key elements of the SAFE approach

- Lead with health equity and social justice
- Change community conditions through addressing underlying contributors
- Promote community resilience
- Collaborate across sectors and social movements
- > Attend to prevention and healing

Trajectory of DV and Inequities in DV

DV = Domestic Violence

66

It is unreasonable to expect that people will change their behavior easily when so many forces in the social, cultural, and physical environment conspire against such change.

Community Determinants of Safe Relationships

You really did connect the dots and did your research about risk and protective factors related to DV.

The framework resonates!

And, it includes determinants of DV and of safe relationships. In other words, the framework creates a pathway forward.
